The end of our second term is nigh! We had an egg-cellent final assembly celebrating all those with 100% attendance, the eggs-traordinary Y6 work based on Michael Rosen's poetry and Amaan's eggs-plosive insight into who is right - Mrs Brand or himself... The video is on our Twitter site and well worth a watch. The whole school came together to reaffirm our community spirit and tolerance of our differences as we remembered the events in Belgium earlier in the week. The pupils of this school set the example for those much older than themselves on how tolerance, community and multiculturalism should be celebrated. Well done and thank you.

Our mile-a-day eggs-ercise has been very successful and we will continue this after Easter; I hope the children keep this up over the break. The Y6's are still on the lookout for the person that has been poaching their chocolates and I am sure they are hatching a plan to catch the culprit. On a totally unrelated note, the Chair of Governors has been in school a great deal recently.... Thank you for your awards for the children with the firmest handshakes - book tokens going to Aaron (Y5), Jasmin (Y4A) and Millie (Y2) - please let us know what books you choose.

We had a cracking visit from an Ofsted inspector who has confirmed our progress, whilst also identifying further areas that we can improve – something, at Flora, that we are all committed to achieve. After Easter I will be hatching a plan to make sure that our improvements continue at a pace. Finally, Ruby House were shell-shocked to see Diamond House overtake them as the leading House - all to compete for next term.

I do hope everybunny has a wonderful holiday. I know we are all fried but looking forward to an egg-static summer term!

Thank you to the FGPTA for organising a highly enjoyable Easter fair and egg-cellent Easter egg hunt for the pupils!

A massive thank you to the volunteers from Chugai who worked with our friends from Hammersmith Community Garden Association on improving our beautiful green gardens.

On Thursday, Year 5 Flora went on an amazing trip to Kite Studios as a reward for excellent attendance. We looked at some pop art and some paintings by Picasso for inspiration then traced our profiles and created abstract patterns. We then cut out the profile outlines and created screen prints using a silk screen which got put onto our own bags. We all had an amazing and enjoyable afternoon being bag designers!

Thank you, Kite Studios!
