Year 5's Blog

This term, Year 5 have been learning about Dragons Den as part of their topic. We have been using our creative thinking skills to come up with ideas in groups about products and services our investors would be interested in.

We worked in groups and designed a product with a unique selling point (USP). We had to consider a target market that our product would be most suitable for and think of the way we were going to sell our idea to our potential investors; it had to be better than the rest!

We started planning our pitches right away! We created presentations about our main ideas that we then explained in front of everyone. We were all very excited, yet nervous at the same time, as we knew the other groups would all have fantastic ideas too!

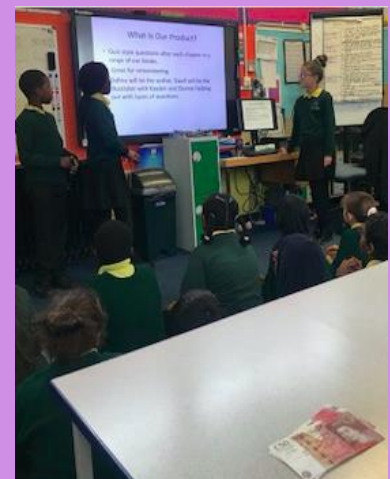

In the end, everyone pitched their products in front of our panel of investors. They were very impressed with the amount of detail we went into about our products in the five minutes we had. The feedback was excellent!

Everyone's product had a unique selling point which interested different investors. We all received the amount of money that we had asked for in order to start the production and sales of our products, which was exactly what we wanted!

As a class, we thoroughly enjoyed learning about the possibility of making something out of nothing and actually making it a success - which is what innovation and business is all about!
